Daily Happenings at the Budget of Interesting Items from our Regular Correspondent.

Bisbee, August 22 1896

COPPERING.

John S. Williams makes another trip to Tombstone today on official business.

Mrs. Chas. Heath, who was up from Fairbank on a short visit, returned to her home this morning.

Mrs. J. A. Miller and children and Mrs. C. W. Black were noticed among the outgoing passengers this morning.

Mr. George Dreyer, part owner and general soliciting agent of the Bisbee Steam Laundry, is limping about town presenting a very melancholy and woebegone appearance lately. Amongst other things acquired by the purchase of the said steam laundry, George came into possession of a horse; a horse supposed to be from the bluest of blood but in reality a rattle-brained impostor. George, however, was happy at the prospect of having a buggy horse, seeing no reason why a person who had handled contrary ore cars for three or four months could not manage a half-breed horse, even if he was of blue blood. The bright vision, however, have all taken flight and George has come to thoroughly realize that he is fighting the battle of his life. "Drive or Bust" is the motto posted in his hat, and he needs it to refer to quite often. He has only driven this deceptive piece of horse flesh about one week now but in that time the animal has managed to run away three times, upset the wagon, almost break George's neck and demoralize things generally. He seems to be becoming no better fast but George says he'll have him broke in a day or so. We wish him luck, but would advise him to see Mr. C. L. Beckwith and invest in a policy in the New York Life Insurance Co. as soon as possible.

Now a few words in regard to the first reference to us in last Saturday's issue of the "Bisbee Herald" alias "The Bisbee Orb." Their first thought in this line seems to be a concurrence with us in our opinion "that placing our name conspicuously at the head of the Bisbee column in the Press-Scout would not make our article any more acceptable to the general public." We are firmly convinced of this fact, not through any womanish or "Orbish" qualms as they suggest, but from the fact that we neither "we the pleasure of beginning our name" with an H nor of being recognized as the St. Louis Delegate of the People's party. It seems to us, that if we could but possess one of these qualifications we would, be perfectly justified in giving our opinion in public. It may be however that we are wrong and that some people merely possess a superficial stock of egotism. Let that be as it may, we were satisfied to let things move along as they would until our brainy friends published a bit of "news" for our benefit—"O. W. Tyler is at present acting as correspondent for the Press-Scout."—Ye Gods! "News."—Mr. John McCall, the showiest man in town, publicly announced the fact a week ago and Crossley's parrot has nearly driven the neighbors wild for three weeks past in vainly endeavoring to impress the fact on the minds of passers by.

—News!—It sounds very queer to us; but then, on reflection, it is about on a par with the general run of "Orb News." Do you remember ever having detected anything up-to-date in the Orb: anything entirely free from contact with a parrot's beak? We can not. But enough of this. The boys are beginning to try to write editorials and we ought not to discourage them. They'll learn in a little while, probably in six or seven years. We'll drop the matter for the present at least but will endeavor to correct their second item regarding ourselves tomorrow.
